Acceptance Criteria:
<I Know It's Done When...>

1. Distribute the poker chips equally between the players to form the total budget of chips available
2. Arrange all of the items on a table so that they can be easily read
3. Each player now places how many poker chips they would like to spend on the items until their total budget is spent
4. When all players no longer have any poker chips left, write on the items the number of chips placed on them as the business value
5. Place the items back on the backlog and arrange in priority order to form a release plan e.g. the business value vs. the effort needed to complete them
